Counsel,

Please find attached Meta's Amended and Supplemental Privilege Logs. For ease of review, we have split these into a log for email and attachments (including non-privileged family members for reference), and a log for non-email documents. Please note that these contain Highly Confidential – Attorneys' Eyes Only information (as noted in their file names). We note that the information provided in these privilege logs, including any additional information provided by Meta as part of the parties' ongoing meet and confer, is not a waiver of any privilege or work product claim.

Best,

Liz

Liz,

I jumped the gun on the last email and believe that Judge Chhabria's ruling obviates the need to file the stipulation today. I look forward to our continued meet and confer discussions.

Thanks,

Amy

Liz,

These revisions are fine, and you have our approval to file (please confirm you're filing).

As for the joint discovery brief, we would be agreeable to exchanging portions one business day in advance.

Thanks so much,

Hi David,

We have a few additional edits, attached. We also would propose that the parties agree that, to the extent either side intends to file a joint discovery brief regarding privilege logs, we provide our portion of the joint statement at least 2 business days prior to the intended filing date. Please confirm this works for Plaintiffs.

Best,

This isn't what was discussed as it doesn't have the court sign off on extending the deadline to raise issues with the adequacy of the log after we receive it on Monday or to raise substantive issues with any privilege claims if the log is adequate.

Liz,

Thank you for your response. While reserving our ability to challenge the log if the changes do not help us understand or assess the privilege or work product assertions, we will wait to receive your log as part of our ongoing meet and confer process. Since the Magistrate Judge ordered us to submit briefing on the issue tomorrow, do you have a stipulation we can file to inform the judge that we have agreed to extend briefing deadlines on the issue?

Two more issues. First, I know that you have received a number of questions from our team regarding certain redactions to documents. Based upon our flagging of those documents, can you confirm that Meta is also performing a review of the remaining redactions as you are putting together the renewed privilege log to ensure that they are properly made?

Second, upon reviewing the correspondence related to Plaintiffs' privilege logs, it appears that the disputes have been resolved. If I am misunderstanding where the parties stand, please let me know.

Thanks,

Amy

Hi Amy,

We appreciate your desire to save resources with respect to our updating of Meta's privilege log. As we previously represented, however, we are already working on an updated log, including our updated redactions and other edits designed to address your concerns. This updated log would replace the original log. It would be confusing and wasteful to present an outdated log to the Court for any analysis. If, after providing the updated log, you have questions or a basis to challenge Meta's assertion of privilege, we can confer and discuss how best to raise the issue with the Court. We are on schedule to provide our updated log by this coming Monday. In the meantime, we look forward to your team's response as to the privilege log issues we raised (noting that Holden responded on behalf of the three Saveri Plaintiffs to indicate that no further revised log was forthcoming).

Best,

Liz

Liz,

Thank you for the response.

In reviewing Meta's position, it's become clear to me that perhaps another path forward might be more efficient and save Meta additional resources that it would have used to update its current privilege log. I'm especially concerned that, without seeing the proposed log, we may not be further along in understanding Meta's privilege assertions than we are now.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

I believe this path forward will potentially save a lot of time and resources for both parties. I'm happy to discuss on a call or hear whatever thoughts you may have.

Thanks,

Hi Amy,

Yes, when we re-produce our privilege log (as will be discussed in greater detail in our forthcoming letter), we can agree to do so in excel format, assuming that Plaintiffs are willing to do the same for their logs.

Best,

Liz

Liz,

We are looking forward to Meta's response to our letter and meet and confer from last week concerning Meta's privilege log. This email also confirms that, pursuant to that discussion, Meta will be producing its log in .xls format. If I'm mistaken, please let me know.

Thank you,

Nada,

We were unsure if you still were seeking to meet and confer, as your co-counsel requested relief from the Court on these issues prior to such conference (in direct contravention of the Court's standing order on discovery, and failing to note to the Court that we had offered to meet and confer early this week).

That said, we of course remain willing to meet and confer and are available to do so at 10 am on Tuesday. Please circulate a dial in.

Best,

Liz

Liz,

We appreciate Meta's promise to take Plaintiffs' concerns seriously and to review our deficiency letter in good faith, particularly given the remainder of your email below.

Meta is well aware of the requirements for a privilege log under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 and Ninth Circuit law. If Meta thought it needed relief from those requirements, that is a conversation Meta should have had with Plaintiffs months ago; rather than producing a seriously deficient privilege log and then trying to excuse its actions after the fact.

This is also not a tit for tat situation where Meta can excuse the deficiencies in its own privilege log by pointing to Meta's alleged concerns with Plaintiffs' privilege logs.

Since Meta was unwilling to meet and confer today, please provide Meta's availability on Monday September 23 or Tuesday September 24 to meet and confer on the deficiencies identified in our September 18, 2024 letter. We look forward to discussing all of the issues raised in the letter with Meta further.

Sincerely,

Nada

Counsel,

We were surprised to receive your lengthy letter regarding Meta's privilege log. Among other things, given the subject matter, [REDACTED]

Moreover, all but two Plaintiffs have failed to provide any privilege log whatsoever in this case. [REDACTED]

We also refer you to the ND Cal ESI Guidelines, which encourage the parties to discuss "[w]hether the parties can agree upon alternative ways to identify documents withheld on the grounds of privilege or work product to reduce the burdens of such identification." [REDACTED]

Meta takes your concerns seriously and is reviewing your letter in good faith and will respond in due course. Requesting a meet and confer within 36 hours of this letter, however, is unreasonable. We can agree to meet and confer early next week and will plan to send you our availability for that call this weekend, once our team's travel for this week has concluded.
